A document's margin is the space between the edge of the paper and where the text begins. You can set the document margins in Microsoft Word to best fit your needs. Ideal margins depend on many factors, including the document type, the need to limit the number of pages (for example, if you're paying by the page to fax or copy a document), and the audience's needs.

Margins Except for the running head (see below), leave margins of one inch at the top and bottom and on both sides of the text. If you plan to submit a printout on paper larger than 8½ by 11 inches, do not print the text in an area greater than 6½ by 9 inches.

To make the margins in your document smaller or larger, use Word's Narrow, Moderate, or Wide margins. To print your document on both sides of the paper and put it in a three-ring binder, use the Mirror margin setting. Mirror margins cannot be set in Word Online.

Once you know how big to make your margins, head to the "Layout" tab in Word and click the "Margins" button. You'll only need to adjust margins on one side of the paper for a hole puncher, so go ahead and click the "Custom Margins" command on the drop-down menu.
